Sketchbook Focus & Key Knowledge

William Morris was a Victorian designer and one of the most influential designers of the 19th century. His work in decorative arts included book design, furniture, stained glass windows, tiles, tapestries, textiles and wallpaper. He had a love of nature and was inspired by the environment. His wallpapers were printed by hand, using carved, pear woodblocks loaded with natural, mineral-based dyes, and pressed down with the aid of a foot-operated weight. Each design was made by carefully lining up and printing the woodblock motifs again and again to create a seamless repeat.

L.S Lowry is one of the UK's most popular artists, famous for his iconic paintings of everyday life in industrial towns of the North of England. More often than not, his hometown of Salford. He used a very limited colour palette (Ivory Black, Prussian Blue, Vermilion, Yellow Ochre, and Flake White) and painted 'matchstick figures'.
